

Thank you for participating in Adobe's user panel. You have been asked to participate in this program because we value your feedback as someone who would use our software; the findings will be used to improve our existing products and create new features. If you would like to continue, please read the following terms and click to agree below. If you do not agree to the terms outlined, please feel free to close out of this window. By clicking this agreement and participating in the panel, you agree to these terms.

Confidentiality, Feedback & Consent

You acknowledge that you may have access to Adobe's Confidential Information (as described below) and agree that you will not use or disclose to any third party the Confidential Information for any purpose. Any Product Input (as described below) that you provide shall be the property of Adobe and may be used by Adobe for any purpose, including the enhancement and development of our products and services. You assign all rights, title, and interest in and to any and all Product Input to Adobe or its designee. You consent to Adobe making a video and audio recording of your participation in panel activities and understand that this recording may be used by Adobe for research purposes.

"Confidential Information" includes, without limitation, your participation in the Adobe panel feedback activities, marketing and product development plans, prototypes, intellectual property, trade secrets, know-how, formulations, files, software, processes, Usability Lab content, any information related to Adobe's past, present and future research, development and business activities, and other information disclosed to you related to your participation in Adobe feedback activities.

"Product Input" means all feedback, ideas (patentable or not patentable), concepts, suggestions, improvements, designs, and recommendations made by you in connection with your participation in feedback activities.

Your Authority to Participate

You represent that (a) you have the full right and authority to execute this agreement, (b) you are not a minor, and (c) the rights you grant to Adobe under this agreement will not be limited by any other contract or obligation. In addition, you agree to release Adobe and its authorized subsidiaries and affiliates from any and all claims that you may have now or in the future related to your participation in the Usability Lab.
