

Terms of Participation - Netflix Preview Club

Welcome! We're so excited to have you join the Netflix Preview Club to watch and share feedback on some of our upcoming films and series. Please carefully read this agreement, which contains the legal terms of your participation and, most importantly, the requirement to keep it confidential – because nobody likes a spoiler!

For good and valuable consideration, you agree as follows:

- As part of the Netflix Preview Club, you may view films and series that have not yet been released on Netflix, as well as have access to surveys and materials that we need you to keep confidential. You agree not to share or disclose any of these materials, or anything about these films and series (including their titles, casts, characters, plotlines, endings, etc.) with anyone else. And yes, that means not posting about them on social media, or on fan sites, or on entertainment blogs, or on – okay, you get the picture.
- The unreleased films and series we make available for screening, and the materials we share, are owned by Netflix. We're interested in your thoughts and feedback, but we're not giving permission to photograph, film, record, or use these films, series, or materials for any other purpose. Just enjoy the films and series and fill out the surveys, please!
- Your participation, and any suggestions, comments or other feedback you provide, are given voluntarily. For no additional compensation, you give us the unrestricted right to use these suggestions, comments or other feedback to make the best entertainment experience possible. You also acknowledge that others may have provided the same suggestions, comments or feedback, or that we may have already come up with them ourselves.
- In order to keep these films and series safe, sound, and confidential, you understand that we may be taking some precautions for security purposes, such as providing you with a unique PIN and temporary screener account, watermarking (superimposing an ID onto the content you are viewing), and monitoring streaming activity to prevent fraud. You acknowledge that if you violate these terms, it could significantly harm Netflix. We reserve the right to stop sharing access to unreleased films and series at any time, and we don't guarantee that any unreleased films and series will be shared. If you breach these terms, you agree to help us minimize any damage as much as possible.
- These terms supplement the Netflix Terms of Use and Privacy Statement, both of which also apply.